Volunteering Models

Volunteering Models

Weekday Volunteering

Give a few hours for 2-3 days during the week. This is most suitable for people who work on their own schedules, homemakers and retirees.

Short Term Intern

Volunteer every day for one month or more during the semester breaks. College students who wish to learn more about the social sector can benefit from this model. We will provide certificates after the intern completes the project.

Weekend Volunteering

Spare a few hours on weekends. This is ideal for professionals and college students.

Long Term Intern

Volunteer every day for 6 months after graduation to gain deeper understanding of the social sector and contribute significantly. This is suitable for those looking for a perspective altering experience and an arena to do meaningful work. We will reimburse all reasonable expenditures incurred during this time.

Virtual Volunteering

People with special skills like creative writing, movie making, website creation, graphics design, etc. can help us with backend tasks.

Volunteer Professional Services

One can offer professional skills to serve community's needs. Doctors, auditors, lawyers writers or any other professional can offer their professional services.
