About Us

02

We The Leaders Foundation(WTLF), founded in January 2019, is being started by like-minded individuals with the aim to do our part in making our society and in turn our country great. To do that we aim to instill a culture of honest conversation, open dialogue and being the change that we want to see.

We as a group believe, time for talk is over and we can get into action even if it might appear minuscule. We will without a doubt do our meaningful part in setting our country onto a path for greater heights. We clearly want to get into three areas that we believe will define the aspirations of 'new' India.

- 1.) Skilling - from job seeking in stage 1 to job creation in stage
- 2.) Dialogue for Development.
- 3.) Organic farming, living with needs in control and an alternate model of development.

ANNUAL REPORT FY 2021-22

The foundation is being started by like-minded individuals with the aim to contribute our part in making our society and in turn our country great. To do that we aim to instill a culture of honest conversation, open dialogue and being the change that we want to see.

05

Too much pessimism is being woven into our national fabric with corruption, lack of accountability and zero to nil enlightened leadership continuing to be our bane. The bulk of talents that resides in rural India is not finding an outlet to express itself. Its voice remains to be heard and is feeble for a long time. The current growth trajectory that is widening the gulf between the rich and poor, despite the governments' best of intentions might throw all of the recent decadal gains under the bus, if the course correction doesn't happen soon. What is most surprising is that people have gotten used to corruption as a way of life and leadership at the political office level is kept at a very low threshold and that enables all the undesirable character to wield power.

ANNUAL REPORT FY 2021-22

The way forward:

As a group we believe the time for talks is over and we can get into action even if it might appear minuscule. We will without a doubt do our meaningful part in setting our country onto a path for greater heights. We clearly want to get into three areas that we believe will define the aspirations of 'new' India.

06

1. Skilling - from Job Seeking in stage 1 to job creation in stage 2:We would like to start a dedicated program to skill youths who have a basic degree or in their final year of graduation. The core emphasis of this program will be on building communication skills, critical thinking ability and helping them to be confident and maybe not be perfect individuals, which our current education system is intending to do. We have partnered with Valluvar College of Science & Management, Karur and that will be our first base. We will be upgrading one seminar hall with facilities needed to deliver the course. Once they are trained, we intend to facilitate placements for them.
2. Dialogue for Development:This dialogue series that will be hosted will try to bring the best of speakers available in urban areas to rural audiences. We will be organizing awareness workshops on topics of pertinent interest that include - pressing national issues, good politics and political leadership, development needs of the local areas, best of writers, new and innovative ideas to infuse fresh energy and dynamism among the audience. This will be a half-yearly affair in Karur, Coimbatore and Mangalore.

3. Organic farming, living with needs in control and an alternate model of development: Rural areas which were cradles of civilization have become living hells now with people migrating en masse. Mahatma Gandhi memorably said, 'India lives in its villages' and now the apt representation would be, 'Indian villages live with its belly up'. Many of our reckless policies and blind aping of the west have taken us to this stage. We aim to shift the focus back to agriculture and that too in an organic way, educating people on their needs and wants and importantly to promote an alternate and an Indian way of living. This has to go through the route of conversation building - experimentation - encouraging and finally funding. We are committed to cracking this seemingly tough problem.

We might not have arrived at the most apt model now but we have the best of intentions to keep evolving.

Come, let's act now !!!

We The Leaders Foundation

The WTLF Logo - Lead The Change

We The Leaders Foundation is rooted in three areas that believe will define the aspirations of 'New' India.

08

Skilling

The core emphasis of this area will be on building communication skills, critical thinking ability and helping them to be confident and maybe not be perfect individuals, which our current education system is intending to do.

Organic farming

The aim is to shift the focus back to agriculture and that too in an organic way, educating people on their needs and wants and importantly to promote an alternate and an Indian way of living. This has to go through the route of conversation building - experimentation - encouraging and finally funding.

Dialogue for Development

We believe it is crucial to get to the 'root cause' of an individual's temperament by providing them with their true underlying motivations, and giving them an understanding of how that leads to their visible behaviour.
